

Read Me – Task 4: The Giving Tree Storytelling (Part 1)

Description:

This project presents an interactive storytelling experience based on Shel Silverstein's "The Giving Tree." The webpage consists of multiple pages, each containing text and images from the story. As the user scrolls through the content, various parallax animations are applied to enhance the storytelling experience.

Usage:

Scroll through the content to progress through the story. Interact with the popups to navigate between the start and the continuation of the story.

Encountered Issues:

Initially, setting up the parallax animations required fine-tuning to ensure smooth transitions and appropriate timing and that the element's position changes would not be too abrupt.

Future Implementations:

Expand the storytelling experience to include additional parts of the story. Another way to enhance the website is to give users more control over the animations or add buttons to progress the story.
